

We are enjoying the benefits of what can easily be described as one of the most exciting periods in the history of SSM Cardinal Glennon Children's Medical Center.

In recent months we have recruited a number of outstanding new members to our pediatric medicine and surgery staffs. We have been able to recruit surgeons and physicians with national and international reputations due, in part, to the many wonderful facilities that have been built at Glennon during this decade. A few years ago the medical center added the south patient care wing and expanded the Dan Dierdorf Emergency and Trauma Center. More recently we opened new surgical suites, the Dana Brown Neonatal Intensive Care Unit and the Larry and Dorothy Dallas Heart Center.

The Building Campaign has Enhanced the Delivery of Care at Glennon

The building campaign has enhanced the delivery of care at Glennon and improved the quality of the hospital experience for our patients, families and referring physicians. Representatives from hospitals across the country are visiting to St. Louis to review our facilities as they plan their own building projects.

In the months ahead Glennon Magazine will bring news of further additions to the medical center campus. These will include a hybrid operating suite, for advanced heart procedures combining cardiothoracic surgery and interventional cardiology, and the St. Louis Fetal Care Institute, in which Glennon surgeons will perform procedures that correct congenital defects before birth.

While there have been many changes in our facilities and faculty, the original mission of Glennon remains our foremost goal -- caring for all children regardless of family circumstances.

Our fulfillment of the Glennon mission is made possible by the growing generosity of our friends in St. Louis and across the United States. We thank you for your commitment and sincerely pledge to be worthy of your continuing support.
